PSE COMMUNITY

NEW JOURNEYS

The governor's announcement that schools in North Carolina will remain closed through May 15 was a sobering check on where we are right now as a community. As I write this, I try my best to remain grateful, to model resilience with my staff and children, and to connect with people throughout the day. Social distancing and quarantines are isolating, but I've discovered through social media, game nights, family chores, family dinners, and zoom meetings that my priorities are refocusing. I am grateful every day to serve the PSE community. I am proud to hear and observe the new ways our staff and students are teaching and learning. I want to acknowledge the new roles our parents are taking on as we journey into virtual learning. Give yourself grace and maximum flexibility, as this is all new. The resilience, adaptability, and flexibility we model for our children will benefit them tremendously as they continue to grow and face life's challenges. Finding ways to reconnect as a family and connect with our friends and families emphasizes the importance of relationships.

Moving forward, our PSE staff remains committed to building our relationships. Daily zoom meetings and PSE staff check-ins with our students and families are priorities. If you seek technology support, social-emotional support, or a friendly chat, please email me directly at

We are PSE UNITED because PSE is the place to be!

CRESTDALE COMMUNITY OUTREACH

Crestdale Middle School is providing non-perishable food to families in need every Saturday from 9 am – 12 pm in the school's bus lot. Families can pick up what they need; the process is set up like a drive-thru to ensure everyone's safety. Likewise, if families would like to make donations, they can come at the same time. A list of requested food items is on the school's website. Grocery store gift cards are also accepted. If you have any questions, please contact Crestdale at 980-343-5755.

Respectfully,
Jane
